

OPINION

Trump-hating White House media betrayed voters by hiding Biden's alarming condition, and now it could backfire

Press covered President Clinton, but covered for President Biden

By Mark Halperin OPINION Fox News

Published July 3, 2024 1:00pm EDT

Media Biden supporters pained by his performance, suggest he should step aside

Brawls, chaos
Square Park

Alec Baldwin apartment aft

Media Biden supporters pained by his performance, suggest he should step aside

Prominent figures on CNN, MSNBC and ABC's 'The View' suggested that now may be the time for President Biden to step aside.

NEW You can now listen to Fox News articles!

Listen to this article
0:00 / 14:21 1X
BeyondWords

In 1991, when I was just a few years into my career as a journalist, I experienced a stroke of life-changing professional luck. The 1992 presidential campaign was ramping up, and a host of eager candidates were vying to take on President George H.W. Bush, who was running for his second term.

I was a 20-something off-air political reporter for ABC News, waiting to find out which candidate I would be following on the campaign trail. I would remain embedded with my designated candidate for the duration, until he (no shes were running) lost, dropped out or won the whole shebang.

Naturally, I was hoping for someone interesting, someone who would go far in the race, or at least, someone who would make a little news.

WHERE ARE THE JOES? SCARBOROUGH, BIDEN LAY LOW AFTER EMBARRASSING DEBATE

Would it be the populist Iowa Sen. Tom Harkin? The idiosyncratic former California Gov. Jerry Brown? The Republican conservative commentator Pat Buchanan, launching a hell-for-leather anti-Bush challenge? The commonsense former Massachusetts Sen. Paul Tsongas?

ABC's assignment desk handed out our roles. I was tasked to cover the governor of Arkansas, William Jefferson Clinton.

What followed was a fascinating year that took me to nearly every continental state in America. I saw in granular detail the inner workings of a fledgling campaign, and watched it grow. I witnessed the power and wisdom of American voters, and what it took to earn their support. I apprehended the need to go out in the field, away from hermetic news offices in New York and Washington, D.C., to see firsthand the house parties and rope lines, debate spin rooms and local newscasts, the rallies large and small.

President Clinton holds Socks the cat as he and first lady Hillary Clinton host Washington area elementary school children at the White House on Dec. 20, 1996. (AP Photo/Ruth Fremson, File)

I observed the young Bill and Hillary Clinton as they fought back from tabloid scandal, primary losses, bad news cycles, embarrassing gossip and malignant rumors, until they finally vanquished Bush, Ross Perot and a handful of their own demons and skeletons to nab the brass ring.

Out on the Clinton trail, I also observed some of the greatest political reporters of the modern era, up close and in action.

As Bill Clinton became the hot topic, the besmirched Icarus, the Comeback Kid, the frontrunner, the Democratic nominee and eventually, the president-elect, more and more reporters of note, rising young stars and prize-winning legends, crowded onto the bus to cover his stratospheric rise.

Renaissance Man Johnny Apple, deliberative Dan Balz, cultivated Todd Purdum, shrewd Adam Nagourney, perceptive Joe Klein, the great Gwen Ifill.

I spent time with them, shared meals and conversation, watched their off-the-cuff interviews with the principals and the staff. I learned from them. I respected them. They were civilians and citizens, individuals with specific experiences and personal beliefs, but they remained impartial, prudent and fair. They told the facts, even as they draped their words with detail and poetry. They cataloged mundane, day-to-day events, while keeping an eye on history. They felt beholden to the American people and took that responsibility seriously, distilling and explaining policy positions, clarifying spin and staying direct and detached, all while holding the powerful accountable to the public interest.

As reporters, they had intimate access to a person who would end up being the leader of the free world. Who was he? What were his thought processes? What were his failings, and his strengths?

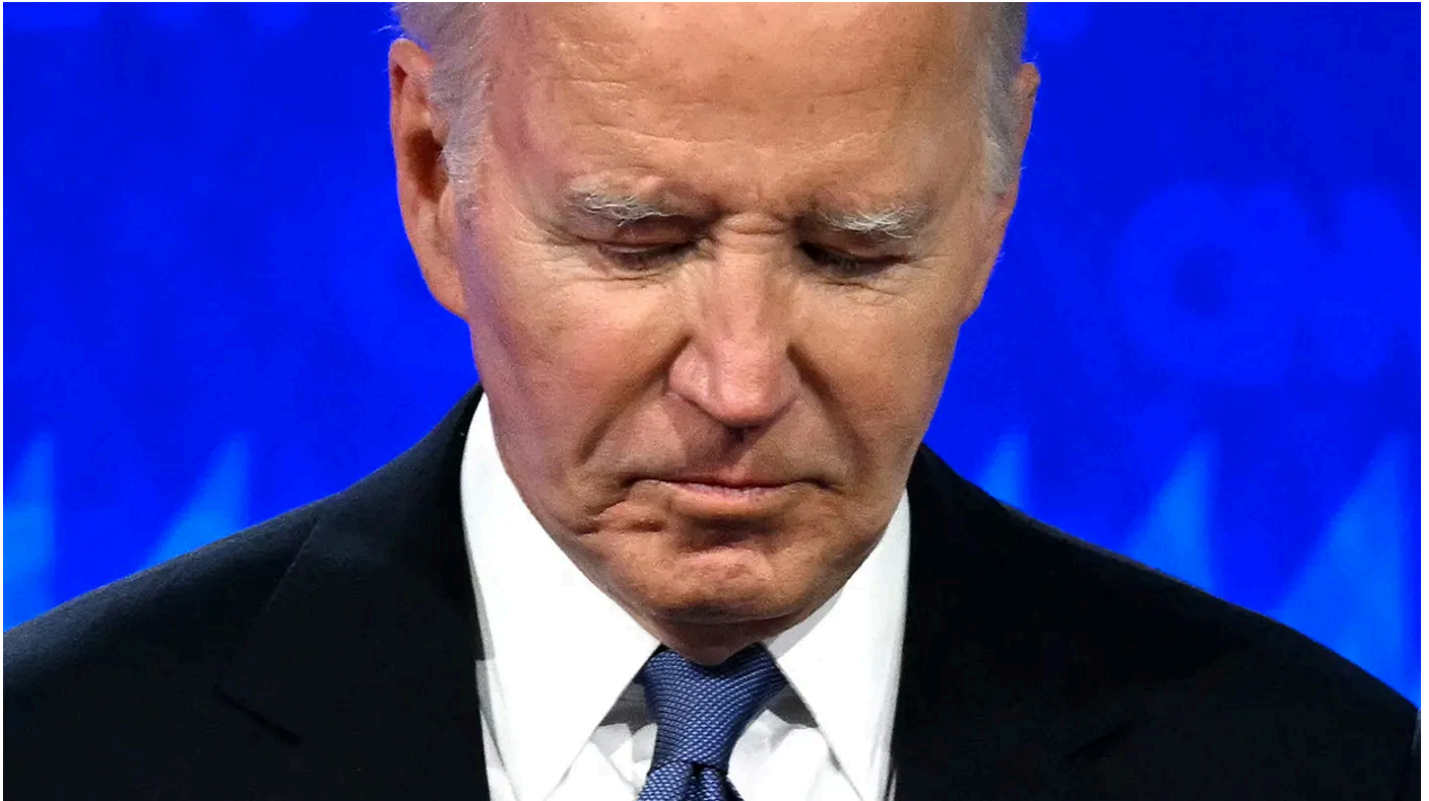

How would he lead if elected? Was he resilient? Honest? Thin-skinned? Brave? Nimble? Wise? Those questions might be impossible for anyone to answer in full. But they had to try. It was an admirable goal, vital to the health and future of the United States, and a tacit promise to the American voters who counted on skilled journalists to report the truth without bias.

The media's conspiracy of silence was intended to keep Donald Trump from returning to the White House for a second term. It is ironic that the deception and hypocrisy may be what in fact leads Trump straight back to the Oval Office.

When Bill Clinton was sworn into office on Jan. 20, 1993, I moved to the off-air White House beat. The ABC White House correspondent was Brit Hume, and, in our tiny booth, I received an invaluable tutorial in how to cover a shambolic administration with grace, coherence and aplomb.

As my career continued, I worked mostly in liberal newsrooms, and saw plenty of obvious pro-Democratic media bias, although it was rarely acknowledged. When I endeavored to call it out, or correct the imbalance, I was falsely accused of right-wing leanings, or of professional treachery. The constant undercurrent of bias was troubling, to be sure. Most of my colleagues seemed in denial about it, and oblivious to how their predilections were alienating about half of America.

Journalistic anti-Republican bias has, of course, escalated in the Trump era.

President Biden looks down as he participates in the debate against former President Trump at CNN's studios in Atlanta on Thursday. (Andrew Caballero-Reynolds/AFP via Getty Images)

---

But the conspiracy of silence between the press and the Biden administration to conceal President Biden's grievous mental and physical state has brought our country to a unique level of peril, disorientation, and disillusionment.

How did one of America's most essential bulwarks, a strong and fair political press, crumble and decay?

Maybe it was the advent of the internet, which shifted datelines into ether, and replaced concrete deadlines with the necessity of now. Headlines and live streams were posted in seconds, and then evaporated without opportunity for reflection or analysis. Maybe it was social media, which placed untrained, inexperienced influencers and bloggers on the same nebulous platform as veteran professionals. Maybe it was the collapse of TV ratings and magazine ad sales that led to smaller budgets for travel and research. Or maybe it was just laziness and corner cutting, the lures of likes and clicks, that have so far defined our 21st century ethos.

BIDEN PUTS HIS FATE, AND MAYBE THE NATION'S, IN THE HANDS OF HUNTER

Maybe it all changed because of the coarse complexities of the Clinton administration, or the visceral tragedy and fear of 9/11 and the policy confusion of the subsequent Gulf War. Maybe it was the glamorous cool of Barack and Michelle Obama that dazzled so many frumpy members of the press corps.

Certainly, it worsened with the polarizing presence of Donald Trump, which excreted an epidemic of Trump Derangement Syndrome to all four corners of the Dominant Media, and generated such hatred of and derision towards the 45th president that many reporters not only became overtly biased against him but practically bragged about being agents of "The Resistance."

However, nothing compares to what I have witnessed in the five years since Joe Biden launched his successful presidential bid in 2019.

I was surprised when Biden decided to run for president again, his third attempt at competing for the White House. It was not his chronological age of 77; many of us know plenty of septuagenarians who are vital, mentally sharp, physically industrious and fully lucid.

But not Joe Biden.

Biden was an old 77, in body and mind. In November 2017, when I was on Nantucket Island for the Thanksgiving holiday, I attended a question and answer and book signing event for Biden's new memoir, "Promise Me, Dad: A Year of Hope, Hardship, and Purpose." Some politicians publish memoirs before commencing a presidential bid to introduce themselves to the voting public. Some politicians publish memoirs at the end of their career, to say goodbye. I assumed this was the latter, as well as an effort for Biden to try to earn some post-Obama administration cash; Biden famously often complained that he was one of the least financially flush political figures in Washington.

Biden spoke to a room full of friendly local year-rounders and summer residents, many of whom had known him personally for years. I was taken aback by what I witnessed. The fire had left Biden's eyes. He rambled strangely, repeatedly lost focus, misunderstood questions, missed cues. After the Q&A, a decidedly awkward, meandering affair, Biden greeted a select group of audience members backstage, to sign books, take photos and say hello. I watched as he struggled to maintain the simplest of small talk, on occasion failing to recognize old friends and supporters, men and women who had known him well for decades.

Well, that's the end, I thought. Biden's swan song. I considered it fortunate for his family that his political career had ended, and had arguably ended well, with two terms as Obama's vice president, where he had acquitted himself with relative dignity and exited on a career high of civility, spirit, and decorum.

And then he ran for president.

There were many factors that enabled Biden to win first the nomination, and then the general election in 2020. Obama intervened during primary season to clear Biden's path, encouraging Pete Buttigieg and Amy Klobuchar to drop out, not just to help Biden, but to prevent the firebrand Bernie Sanders from becoming the nominee. The COVID pandemic kept Biden comfortably tucked away in his Delaware basement for much of the general election, social distancing his way to victory. Trump himself labored under the unfamiliar pressures of a pandemic presidency, unable to charm or convince a weary nation that he could continue the job at hand.

But a leading factor in Biden's 2020 presidential victory was the press.

Large swaths of the political media decided that any substantive criticism of Biden would contradict their shared goal of getting Trump out of the White House. They stopped doing their jobs and became activists instead of reporters. They willingly betrayed their responsibilities to the public and the requirements of an open society.

Any journalist from a left-leaning press outfit who offered up concern over Biden's health or questioned his general competence as a potential president was bullied and ridiculed on social media or live on the air, even threatened with cancelation, by Biden's staff, by Democratic operatives and by fellow reporters. The coverage of Biden overall throughout the campaign was muted, vague and insubstantial. By contrast, coverage of Trump was largely aggressive, hostile and hyperbolic. Trump, of course, deserved intense scrutiny, but the imbalance was clear to anyone who wished to see it.

After Biden won the White House, his staff became even more opaque and secretive. Biden was shielded from the press, rarely sitting for interviews and avoiding press conferences to a farcical degree. He relied on notecards and teleprompters for even the most elementary appearances. He took long vacations followed by weekends at the beach. He skipped important events at world summits and made embarrassing faux pas at important meetings.

Reporters were not allowed to communicate with Biden's physician or see his full medical records, a standard element of White House coverage that has caused drama in every previous administration, but has rarely been refused.

His team obfuscated and intimidated, denied what was visible to all. Troubling raw video feeds were deemed "cheap fakes." Biden, they said, was in the prime of life, regularly outworking his younger advisers and sharp as Canadian Cheddar.

And the friendly media let them get away with it all. Not every story of every conspiracy of silence in the various newsrooms is exactly the same. Editors, anchors, executive producers, beat reporters — all have played different roles in different news organizations to simply black out the truth. The White House press corps was not gaslit by Biden's aides. They were intimidated and co-conspirators in equal measure.

This is not to suggest that every media element and news outlet lied unabated. There were some gentle forays into medical analysis and concern. The New York Times published a few prominent articles that prodded the sleeping giant, although such stories were always hedged and couched, and made a point of comparing Biden favorably to Trump. And then the paper's journalists were stridently rebutted and ridiculed by the administration.

Late night comics, generally liberal in nature, actually did more than our nation's biggest newsrooms to hold Biden accountable, sometimes poking fun at Biden's elderly stumbles, and at the absurdities of the White House pushback.

The RNC and Red Media, meanwhile, often went too far with accusations of dementia, especially during the first two years when Biden's decline was less acute, spouting extravagant diagnoses and conspiracy theories. When such coverage veered into obvious fraudulence, the other tribe was granted another layer of camouflage.

CLICK HERE FOR MORE FOX NEWS OPINION

Biden was not as far gone as the Reds claimed, nor as hale as the Blues pretended. He had good moments and bad, lucid mornings and cloudy afternoons. He needed rest and calm, and comfortable conditions, and then was usually able to perform adequately, for brief periods. This produced enough video clips for the friendly press and the White House to hide behind, and claim all his days were good. Biden's first chief of staff, Ron Klain, was masterful at managing both Biden's schedule and his pals in the press corps.

But the presidency is a 24/7 job, with daily stresses and unforeseen crises. It is not part-time. It cannot be scheduled around a hazy old man's care routine and frailties.

Several months ago, a few weeks after Biden's respectable showing at the State of the Union, sources began to let me know that the president was worsening precipitously. His mental condition was waning, and he was painfully frail. Meetings with him were at times pitiful and scary. His team, said my sources, were both in denial about the state of the campaign and his capability for future governance, and also shoring up their conspiracy of silence, with talking points, scare tactics and false promises for the media.

Those desperate missives became wishy-washy excuses in the newspapers and stertorous lectures on cable news.

History will be a harsh judge indeed for one of the greatest failures of journalism in our nation's recent past.

CLICK HERE TO GET THE FOX NEWS APP

The country is now in great trouble. The public has been lied to by its government and its free press. Foreign nations, both friends and foe, know that our president is mentally unfit for office, and that there is no one in charge in the White House. The very foundations of the American system have been replaced by sand and mist, leaving questions about, yes, re-election, but also fundamental doubts about our national security and our commander in chief.

America Predicts Options

Will President Biden be replaced as the Democratic presidential candidate?

Closed for predictions after Nov 5, 2024 12:01AM (in 4 months)

NO 0% CHANCE 50% CHANCE TOSS UP 100% CHANCE YES

PROBABLY NOT PROBABLY

50% CHANCE

Make Your Prediction!

Why do you think you're right?

SUBMIT YOUR PREDICTION

Powered by  CULTIVATE LABS
(<https://www.cultivatelabs.com>)

The media's conspiracy of silence was intended to keep Donald Trump from returning to the White House for a second term.

It is ironic that the deception and hypocrisy may be what in fact leads Trump straight back to the Oval Office.

Political analyst and best-selling author Mark Halperin is the founder and editor of the Wide World of News Concierge Coverage.

---

Political analyst and best-selling author Mark Halperin is the founder and editor of the Wide World of News Concierge Coverage.

Sponsored Stories

Military strategy game criticized for being 'too realistic'

History Strategy Game

"So addictive!" - Play this vintage strategy game in your browser for free. No Install.

Forge of Empires

Find out how to earn up to 6.46% yield***

Betterment

Ohio Launches New Policy For Cars Used Less Than 50 Miles/Day

financewallet.org

This 5-Sec Ritual May Banish Nerve Pain In 7 Days

Nerve Shield

Ohio: Say Bye to Your Car Insurance Bill if You Live in These Zip Codes

ottoinsurance.com

Ad removed. Details

AdChoices

Sponsored

Conversation 5.8K Comments

504 Viewing

Discussions are moderated. For more details, click here.

What do you think?

Sort by Best ▾

1 Person typing ↓ View 5 new comments

kfranklinj ...

3 July, 2024

My experience with my mom's dementia, who was working in our family business with it for years, was that dementia is generally a long gradual decline. My mom is in the latter stages now, but I first noticed problems with her nearly 20 years ago. Most people had no idea she had a problem until abo...

See more

Reply ▪ 85 ▪ Share

PauleRoth ...

1 day ago

I had a similar experience with my dad from the time he was around 85 years old until he died at age 95. He had his memorized responses and he relied on routines to get him through the day. Fortunately my dad was not a danger to himself or anyone else. Biden, on the other hand, is putting us all in...

See more

Reply ▪ 26 ▪ Share

tennislover854

1 day ago

Well said. I had the same exacts thing in my family. Problem today is people are having to work so hard to survive they don't recognize the early on symptom's or I see a lot of self absorbed people in my life that would rather not see it. Bottom line is the dementia patient loses in the long run...See more

Reply ▪ 9 ▪ Share

Show 5 more replies

3 3Cents1968

3 July, 2024

Journalists vs. Propagandists

Journalists of yesterday felt beholden to the American people and took that responsibility seriously, distilling and explaining policy positions, clarifying spin, and staying direct and detached, all while holding the powerful accountable to the public interest.

Propagan...

See more

Reply ▪ 191 ▪ Share

F fedup ❤️ usindependent

1 day ago

It's a matter of integrity vs. the belief that 'the ends justify the means' coupled with a lack of accountability and consequences. Moral relativism has proven to be a destructive blight on our society. Half the problem could be solved by passing legislation that requires journalists to obtain a pr...See more

Reply ▪ 29 ▪ Share

3 replies

c CJW3510

2 days ago

that's the problem. they were "reporters" before, not journalists.

Walter Cronkite reported the news.

Journalists write their own opinions and consider it "news".

Reply ▪ 88 1 ▪ Share

8 replies

Show 16 more replies

c catlady1234

3 July, 2024

This is an excellent article. The issue isn't the fact that Biden or Trump will be in the White House - the issue is that the American people are the victims of a deliberate, dangerous fraud. History will indeed show that this is the greatest fraud ever perpetrated on a nation. And it was at th...

See more

Reply ▪ 890 6 ▪ Share

Shyman2@aol.com ...

4 July, 2024

They were unsuccessful in hiding his condition to almost half the population that spotted it several years ago knowing how it accelerates as it progresses. Simply called denial for those who could not see and gaslighting by those close to him that knew. Now he is in the rapidly accelerating phase a...

See more

Reply ▪ 141 ▪ Share

8 replies

P pacnordawg ...

3 July, 2024

Because he needs to deliver on the deal to China where they paid him and his dad mega bucks..... that is so much more important than anything else..... WHY hasn't this media asked questions about all that money FOR NOTHING?

Reply ▪ 177 1 ▪ Share

9 replies

Show 81 more replies

redpark.com/Home

Redpark Official Site - Browse Redpark Cables N

AdChoices

Sponsored

karmijones ...

3 July, 2024

Any informed conservative could have told you of the liberal bias in news for at least 20 years, glad this guy finally caught on. Sure, those of us that firmly support President Trump are righteously angry, but we shouldn't be the only ones. The average on the street democrat should be furious for ...

See more

Reply ▪ 161 1 ▪ Share

P

plh

1 day ago

I agree I was brought up in a democrat household and understood why. FDR won the war, defeated the depression. JFK was the last shining light. Today he would be a Republican. His views on the formation of the deep state, the need for working together not by party, his inspired words won me over, al...See more

Reply ▪ 15 1 ▪ Share

1 reply

fest3er1

2 days ago

The TV and radio news outlets have been biased for Democrats since TV and radio were invented. We only came to understand that when Rush Limbaugh gave people an alternative.

Reply ▪ 53 ▪ Share

4 replies

Show 4 more replies

o

Opfred.com

3 July, 2024

The Biden fiasco has caused the country to lose faith in most of its institutions. The federal government, the media, the FBI, universities and education, and our election system. Without trust and faith our country is on a downward spiral. The only thing that will regain the trust is a sea change ...

See more

Reply ▪ 277 3 ▪ Share

c

CJW3510

2 days ago

we'd lost it well before then. Suppressing the Hunter Biden laptop, continuing to badger Congress to invoke the 25th amendment, "the death of democracy",... Can you name one Presidential event the press covered in a positive light during the Trump administration? (and keep any TDS comments to your...

See more

Reply ▪ 102 3 ▪ Share

3 replies

E

egor99

2 days ago

Biden destroyed border security, allowed millions of illegals to enter the country, many of them criminals. He also intentionally made a mess of our energy program thereby driving gasoline and natural gas to record highs. He single handily triggered record breaking inflation. He pretends that extra...See more s ssmarkoe ...

Reply ▪ 48 2 ▪ Share

3 replies

Show 11 more replies

2 days ago

The key statement in this article is that journalists became "activists" instead of reporters - This has not been lost on the public and explains the skepticism and lack of trust largely held by many. The media has been completely complicit in their quest to shield Biden's state/condition from the...

See more

Reply ▪ 43 ▪ Share

AdChoices

Sponsored

R ranger11989 ...

3 July, 2024

It's called propaganda. I'm a senior citizen and always felt immense pride to be an American citizen. But honestly, with age comes wisdom and sadly cynicism. Ever since the political shift of Obama days, this country has become more divisive, polarized, intolerant as well as having an openly politi...See more s shupe602 ...

Reply ▪ 112 ▪ Share

1 day ago

I to am a senior. Every word in your post is spot on!

Reply ▪ 23 ▪ Share

J justthefactsjack063 ...

1 day ago

The Clinton era was a huge period of erosion. The entire culture is unstable.

Reply · 7 · Share

Show 6 more replies

steve-o ...

3 July, 2024

I find it astounding that almost half of the American people still want someone like Biden who raised their taxes, took money from American families, made us take vaccines that cause harm to the people we love, raised inflation, are trying to force us to by certain vehicles, ruined our military, tr...

See more

Reply · 50 · Share

J jeffvegas ...

1 day ago

I have the same question

Are there really this many ignorant people out there?

Honestly I believe the people who drink the kool aide get free phones, free housing, free food and free healthcare are the Dem voters

They just don't want the gravy train to derail

They want the free ride to keep going = a v... See more

Reply · 13 · Share

1 reply

Show 2 more replies

P pjv560 ...

3 July, 2024

"They stopped doing their jobs and became activists instead of reporters." Yet I bet if you queried 99% of them they would deny their bias and claim that their true purpose is to save the country by keeping Trump from being re-elected. Great piece. But the press is still too blind to see.

Reply · 496 1 · Share

D doseosanity ...

3 July, 2024

We the people need to realize that our media has gone from softly biased, some left-wing, some right-wing, to mostly hard one way or the other. There's absolutely nothing wrong with that. The UK, minus the BBC which is required to be non-partisan, has such a media. Our media just needs to start mak...

See more

Reply ▪ 32 3 ▪ Share

9 replies

J judgementday/coming ...

3 July, 2024

The media should be condemned for outright lying to the American people for the past 3 plus years on Joey's cognitive decline.

Reply ▪ 141 1 ▪ Share

9 replies

Show 21 more replies

3,162

AdChoices

Sponsored

s sabre76 ...

3 July, 2024

The biggest scandal of the Century, in my opinion, is the political collusion between the media and the Democratic party to deceive voters. Something I never dreamed would happen in America. The media's willingness to promote lies and 'cheap fakes' was completely and utterly exposed to the world I...

See more

Reply ▪ 125 1 ▪ Share

F fritz-for-freedom ...

3 July, 2024

Biden being addlebrained and the subsequent cover up by his staff is only the tip of the iceberg when it comes to deceiving of the American public. THE MSM IS THE TRUE ENEMY... Don't lose sight of that. Everybody knows the Democrats will go to great lengths to deceive all of us. Remember their MO i...

See more

Reply ▪ 59 ▪ Share

3 replies

B Besst1 ...

3 July, 2024

welcome to Marxism thank a Democrat voter

Reply ▪ 29 ▪ Share

1 reply

Show 4 more replies

Show More Comments

Powered by OpenWeb

Terms | Privacy | Feedback

U.S.

- Crime
- Military
- Education
- Terror
- Immigration
- Economy
- Personal Freedoms
- Fox News Investigates
- Digital Originals

World

- U.N.
- Conflicts
- Terrorism
- Disasters
- Global Economy
- Environment
- Religion
- Scandals

Politics

- Executive
- Senate
- House
- Judiciary
- Foreign Policy
- Polls
- Elections

Opinion

Media

FOX Nation Coverage

Sports

NFL
College Football
MLB
NBA
NHL
Golf Tennis
Soccer
UFC
WWE

FOX Business

Personal Finance
Economy
Markets
Watchlist
Lifestyle
Real Estate
Tech

Entertainment

Celebrity News
Movies
TV News
Music News
Style News
Entertainment Video

Lifestyle

Health
Food & Drink
Auto
Travel & Outdoors
Real Estate
House & Home
Fitness & Well-being Style & Beauty
Family Faith

Science & Tech

Air & Space Security
Innovation
Video Games
Military Tech
Planet Earth
Wild Nature

Watch Live

- FOX News Shows
- Programming Schedule
- On Air Personalities
- Full Episodes
- Show Clips
- News Clips

Apps & Products

- FOX News Go
- FOX Weather
- FOX Nation
- FOX News Shop
- FOX News Radio
- Outkick
- Newsletters
- Podcasts

About

- Contact Us
- Careers
- Fox Around the World
- Advertise With Us
- Media Relations
- Corporate Information
- Compliance

Games

- Daily Crossword Puzzle
- Crazy Crystals Match 3 Game
- Word Scramble
- Mini Crossword Puzzle
- Stack and Match Block Puzzle
- 5 Across the Letter Word Game

---

Updated Terms of Use New Privacy Policy Your Privacy Choices Closed Caption Policy Help Contact Us
Accessibility Statement

This material may not be published, broadcast, rewritten, or redistributed. ©2024 FOX News Network, LLC. All rights reserved. Quotes displayed in real-time or delayed by at least 15 minutes. Market data provided by Factset. Powered and implemented by FactSet Digital Solutions. Legal Statement. Mutual Fund and ETF data provided by Refinitiv Lipper.